POLITICAL AFFAIRS FROM VARIOUS SIDES

ARE TREATED AT FIRST MEETING OF TWILIGHT CLUB FOR THE YEAR LAST EVENING.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Converts From Janesville Business Men Won to Cause by Strong Address of H. E. Miles of Racine.

As has been the case at other occasions when the subject of politics was under discussion before the Twilight club, the presentation of political beliefs at the opening meeting of the club for the year at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last evening threatened at times to become heated with a rather extended cross fire of arguments.

From the fervent address of Dr. J. W. Laughlin in behalf of the national progressive or Bull Moose party which opened the discussion, to the final outburst of Supr. J. T. Hooper of the State School for the Blind, in defense of the state university, the men present were held intensely interested in spite of the fact that over three hours' time was consumed.

Marshall P. Richardson, defending the state administration in its expenditures and in its enactment of the income tax, seemed in arousing a reply from several members of the club, and the feeling on the state situation which is keenly divided among the gentlemen was again forced to an expression.

Alexander L. Matheson arose to the defense of charges which he made before the club a year ago and James D. Field offered a comparison of state expenditures on Iowa and Wisconsin.

But this was not all. In addition H. E. Miles of Racine, president of the Wisconsin state board of Industrial Education, was present and gave a most comprehensive exposition of the industrial school proposition which was very thoroughly enjoyed. He spoke as a practical man, a manufacturer, who has been face to face with actual problems in the business world and who has been quick to see a possible solution.

Mr. Miles, however, had another very interesting incident to tell about which he did at the suggestion of the leader of the evening, Andrew Gibbons. Mr. Miles was in the company attending Col. Roosevelt at the time of the attempted assassination in Milwaukee Monday evening. He told of the attempted murder and of the dramatic scenes that followed. He spoke of an interview with the would-be assassin, and as a personal witness to the affair his account was of course most interesting.

Laughlin Opens Discussion.
The cause of Taft and the regular republican party was ably presented, although briefly, as the time was growing late, by W. H. Dougherty. The democratic side was not treated.

Mr. McElroy who was present explained that he had given that side and that he had prepared an arraignment of Theodore Roosevelt that was as severe as Dr. Laughlin's praise was fervent, but in the light of the recent outrageous attempt on his life he considered it bad form and to present his views as he had prepared them.

Dr. Laughlin who was the first speaker, called attention in beginning that there was prevalent not only in the United States, but all over the world, an unrest, a new attitude, a strife for a better solution of humanitarian problems. He called it a period of transition which might find its reason in existing from numerous causes, but the important fact, he said was to recognize the situation of unrest as a fact.

He declared that the movement was a religious one; not in the broad sense that every movement is religious but from the humanitarian principles which it advocates and from the type of Christian men who are behind them. All such movements are usually typified by a man; Luther held the key to the reformation; George Washington held the key to the American revolution; Abraham Lincoln held the key to the civil war situation; and Theodore Roosevelt, he said holds the key to the present situation.

"Colonel Roosevelt," he urged, "is the wisest man which the age has produced. Not from the fact that he has specialized in any one thing, but because he knows more about more different things and has a broader outlook on public affairs than any other man in public life. In seven years as President, he impressed himself on the American people and on the nations of the world as no other man has ever done.

Strong For Roosevelt.

PULL UP THE WEEDS KELLOGG'S ADVICE

Gardeners Have Plenty of Fall Work
—All Weeds Should Be Burned
—Protect Young Trees.

Editor Gazette:
Everybody ought to have a garden and now is the time to pull every weed, pile and burn them. There are certain weeds that live through the winter in the strawberry bed; go over the beds now with an old butter knife or a spade and take out every weed, disturbing the roots of the plants as little as possible.

There are weeds gone to seed along the fence and in every corner. Of course you have no fence corners as we used to have fifty years ago, but you will be surprised when you go and hunt weeds. I have known potato fields so covered with big weeds you could not run a digger through them or hardly find the hills at digging time. Gather the weeds and burn them.

Protect your young trees. The mice and rabbits are not all dead. A mound of fresh earth as big as a four quart basin about the base of the tree will keep the mice away. Wrap the trees with newspaper or burlap to keep the rabbits away and pay the boy the cents, yes 25 cents, for every rabbit killed on your ground any time of the year, law or no law. Kill the nuisance.

GEO. J. KELLOGG.
We are picking strawberries yet.

CONSUL IN APPEAL TO CHICAGO GREEKS

J. Milton of This City Sends to the Gazette Copy of Greek Paper Containing Proclamation.

J. Milton of this city, a native of Greece, who is on his way to join the forces of the Greek army against Turkey, has sent to the Gazette a copy of a Greek newspaper, published in Chicago, which contains a proclamation of appeal by the Grecian consul to the Chicago Greeks. The translation will be of interest to Janesville citizens.

"Greece, our mother country, is at this moment mobilizing her sons to fight the hated barbarian oppressor and all the reserves of the army are urged to hurry home to take up their arms."

Five thousand of our countrymen Friday night met and made their arrangements for going home. Three hundred of them will start tomorrow and thousands of others, sworn to the sacred flag and symbolizing the immortal Greek courage, will go as soon as the executive committee is able to arrange transportation.

They have sworn to go back, win more wreaths of laurels, as the heroes of old, and in doing so write another golden page in our motherland's glorious history.

"The situation is a critical one and my trust is that every able man will make his earliest preparations to report for duty."

Nicholas Salopoulos, Consul of Greece to Chicago, The newspaper itself is an interesting one and is on exhibition in the city window.

Peter Pappas, another Janesville resident, a native of Greece, has left for New York on his way to join the army of his native country against the Turks.

COMMENCED POURING CEMENT FOR BRIDGE

Workmen Began Making Blocks for Piers of New Railroad Bridge Today, Moulds Being Completed.

Work was begun today by the construction crew under Foreman Krueger of pouring the cement into the moulds for the blocks to be used in the construction of the piers of the new railroad bridge to be erected jointly by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and the Northwestern railroads to replace the present structure used by them across the river. The moulds for the cement blocks, of which there will be one hundred and four, have been completed, and the cement mixer was put in operation. Yesterday the forms were worked with the steel reinforcement for the blocks, each block containing nearly five hundred pounds of the metal reinforcement. The entire old structure of the bridge, it is understood, will be taken out, and a complete new bridge put in its place. The steel for the framework of the bridge, it is reported, has been ordered and will be shipped here as soon as possible.

Unfortunate Mistake in Article Relative to Miss Gallagher's Appearance at Apollo Club Concert.

Unfortunate errors in the article reporting the recent concert of the Apollo club concert on Monday evening, with reference to Miss Gallagher's appearance has caused that particular portion of the article to be reprinted, as follows:

Last evening marked the first appearance of Miss Gallagher here in serious work; and great interest was apparent on the part of the audience and it is a pleasure to state that she scored a decided triumph. Miss Gallagher is possessed of beauty, great charm and an enchanting smile. These would win for her favor with an audience less susceptible than that of last evening, but added to this she has a mellow voice of lovely quality, especially rich through the lower and middle registers. She entered in her work with verve and sang with admirable poise and finish.

Healthy Old Age Is What Dr. Hartman Advocates

Dr. Hartman.

See here, young man, I heard you complaining the other day of being nervous, brain fagged, and the like. A young man, hardly in the zenith of your life, complaining of such things! And this is very common, too. You are not the only one. Probably three out of four of the young men of today have just such symptoms, as you describe. What does it mean?

Look at me. I am eighty-two years old. Sound as a nut. Tough as hickory. Do not know what it is to be tired. While I cannot do as much physical work as I used to when a young man, I can do a great deal. Probably twice as much as the average young man of today.

What has kept me so strong and well? I will tell you. I do not use tobacco. I do not use alcoholic stimulants. I do not use tea or coffee habitually. I go to bed early. I get up early. I am always doing something; something that occupies my body and mind. I love to work. I take a cold water towel bath every morning, winter and summer. It is these things that have kept me well and strong. You can be just as well and strong as I am if you would do as I do.

You may ask, do I never get sick, have I never had occasion to take medicine at all? Yes, I have got sick. Sometimes I feel a little touch of climatic trouble, like cold, malaria, slight catarrhal symptoms, but my only medicine is Peruna. I always keep a bottle of Peruna on my desk in my office. Once in a while I take some. I do not take it habitually. Take it only when I feel a little out of sorts. One swallow will perhaps be all that will be necessary, but it is always handy by.

It is a sorry sight to see the young men of today begin to peter out physically when they ought to be in the glory of their manhood and the height of their vigor. Eat plain food. Live frugally. Give up all weakening habits. Live as God intended you to live. Take Peruna when you do not feel as well as usual.

If you want me to I will send you a book which will tell you a great many more things about yourself and about matters that may be of great value to you. Enclose a two-cent stamp for postage and the book will be sent in a plain wrapper and you will not be troubled with any follow-up letters or advertisements.

Peruna, Man-a-lin and La-cu-pia manufactured by the Peruna Company, Columbus, Ohio. Sold at all drug stores.

Several New York Giants, including Matheson and Herzog are said to be very much disgruntled because the players in the world's series are to receive a share of the receipts of only the first four games. They think the other players in the leagues ought to get nothing. On the other hand some club owners think the champion players are getting too much and advocate cutting down the total amount players shall receive in world's series games to $750 each for the winners, and $500 each for the losers.

Football coaches at the Naval Academy are worrying a lot about the crude work being done by the backfield. The chief trouble is fumbling, the backs seeming to be unable to hold the ball when tackled. Their work on the forward pass is also disappointing. However, there is a hopeful indication in the aggressive work being done by the linemen.

There is some worrying at the University of Pennsylvania, too. Harrington, star halfback, regarded as the best line plunger of the football squad, is suffering with an injured shoulder and will probably be out of the game until November.

With Vaughn, Bomsieker and Shevlin doing the coaching, the Yale ends ought to be well taken care of.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The Giants lost one series during the season, the Cubs beating them 13 games to 9.

Handsome Harry McIntire, the Cinder-King, is free to sign and will listen to offers for his service.

Pitcher Pickett, of the Bloomington team in the Three-I League, pitched two no-hit, no-run games this season.

The veteran player Kid Gleason, who has been coaching the Chicago White Sox, has several offers to become manager.

Two brothers, Tom and Jim Dronah, of the Kewanee team, are the leading pitchers of the season in the Central Association.

Ty Cobb has now hit for better than 400 in two seasons running, and declares that he can make the 400 class next year as well.

Manager George Stovall, who has gathered quite a bunch of promising players, believes that the Browns will travel in the first division next year.

"Red" Murray didn't get a hit in the world's series last year, but came across with the hit in the big series this year, that scored the Giants first run.

Walter Johnson, the great Washington pitcher, hit but one man all season, Martin, of the Highlanders, was the player. He stepped into one of Walter's fast ones and was beamed.

By keeping to his decision not to play with the Pirates the past season, Manager Fred Clarke won several suits of clothes. Friends of the Pirate leader, who thought he couldn't keep out of the game, were the victims.

Two old Brooklyn catchers, Bill Bergen and Lou Ritter, showed their big league training this season. Bill was a whale with the Baltimore team, and Ritter caught every game played by the Utica New York State League champions.

Baseball loyalty of Harry Ackerman, who recently purchased Frank Chance's stock in the Chicago Cubs, runs three ways from the deck. His home is in Cincinnati, but he is located in Pittsburgh, is a Pirate rooter and owns stock in the Cubs.

When the baseball teams of the Elks lodges of Bartlesville and Coffeyville, in the state of Oklahoma, meet on October 20, it is expected that Larry Cheney, the star of the Chicago Cubs, and Walter Johnson, the sensational pitcher of Washington, will pitch for the opposing sides. Cheney lives at Bartlesville and is a member of the Elks lodge there, while Johnson belongs to the Coffeyville lodge. The teams will be composed largely of professionals who live in that section of the country.

The Denver Western league champions are anxious to meet the Oakland team in the Coast league in a post-season series for the championship of the west. Denver has just defeated Minneapolis of the American Association in a post-season series.

The recent Vanderbilt cup races at Milwaukee resulted in a big loss to the promoters. The expenses of the meet were $75,000, the receipts $40,000. Although 100,000 persons saw the grand prize race, only one of every ten is said to have paid the admission fee.

Jack Johnson is seriously considering another fight with Jim Flynn. If another bout between the two is pulled off it may be in Paris, France. Jack Johnson favors that town.

TRY OUT NEW PLAYS FOR SATURDAY GAME

Local Football Eleven Preparing To Defeat Jefferson in Engagement Here.

New plays were tried out at last night's practice by the high school eleven. Short scrimmages were held, and locals are getting anxious to tackle Jefferson, in hopes of giving them a good trimming. Their signal drills is wonderful to see. When the crowd witnesses the locals in action Saturday morning, they will all agree that their money was well spent for Janesville has a great team.

It is doubtful if any more of Janesville's opponents will be as heavy as were the proteges of Northwestern Military Academy, whom the locals decisively defeated. By being out-weighted fifteen pounds to the man, proves that speed will win over weight. This is where the Janesville highs will show up their future opponents. The strength of Jefferson is not entirely known. Janesville is expecting a victory, and will have new gridiron at the Fair Grounds, they should by the help of the local boosters, win their third game of the season.

Falter is at right halfback, Cummings having been shifted to right tackle. Kuhlow is being tried out at left end, and it is a race between him and Smiley, for this responsible position.

The reason why this game is to be played in the morning is for the fact that a large crowd of local fans are going to Beloit to witness the Lawrence-Beloit game. Beloit has a homecoming, and it will be a great day at that place.

Coach Curtis is confident of a victory with Jefferson Saturday. He expects a hard game, and reports the men are in good shape at present.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

Dartmouth's second team has been giving the varsity eleven some hard jolts this season.

A younger brother of "Tad" and Howard Jones, the former Yale stars, is at Exeter Academy.

The Carlisle Indians are using their 1911 criss-cross again this year, but find the play harder to put over.

Coach Haughton allowed the Harvard football players a day off in order to attend the Red-Sox Giants game in Boston.

The Princeton Tigers are improving in their gridiron work right along and football critics predict another great year-in football for old Nassau.

LAWRENCE-BELOIT GAME OF INTEREST

Local Football Fans Will Attend Game Between Two State Colleges At Beloit Saturday.

Interest in the football game between Beloit and Lawrence college teams at Beloit on Saturday of this week is keen among Janesville followers of the sport and a large number from this city will attend the contest. The fact that three of the Tippet brothers who formerly lived in Janesville are stars on the team and that Russel Wilkinson of this city is filling the bill at left guard to perfection is reason for special interest in the northern college team. Both teams have been playing good games this fall and neither have lost games thus far, except Lawrence who was defeated by Wisconsin by a low score of 13 to 0. This game shows the ability of the Appleton team. Beloit on the other hand has piled up high scores against three teams of lesser strength.

EDDIE GILLETTE WISCONSIN HERO

Eddie Gillette.

Eddie Gillette, Wisconsin quarter-back, is something of a hero at the Badger institution. In the recent game with Northwestern, in which Wisconsin won 55 to 0, Gillette carried off the honors for his eleven. Toward the end of the game he took the ball on his own ten-yard line and carried it ninety yards through a broken field for a touchdown. During his dash down the gridiron Gillette shook off six Northwestern tacklers. Earlier in the game Gillette brought the crowd to its feet by a thrilling dash for fifty yards on a fake kick.

The Value of Good Beer or Ale

In commenting on a report made public by a Special Government Commission "The Hospital" London, in an editorial, says:

"When a man drinks good beer or ale, he drinks and eats at the same time just as when he eats a bowl of soup. We hope the number of beer drinkers will increase considerably as the result of the research of our commission and we hold the view that it would be infinitely better for the well being of the people as a whole, if they would select beer as their habitual drink. If the worth of food is measured by its calorimetric value that a glass of good beer or ale is approximately as nourishing as a glass of milk, or a quart of beer or ale is equivalent to a quarter of a pound of beef and it is often more efficacious in the treatment of insomnia than drugs, due to the hypnotic principles contained in the hops."

The perfection of Buob's Beer or Ale (Our New Brew) is the logical result of years devoted to the attainment of perfection in brewing.

Buob's Beer or Ale is nutritious because it contains all the food portion of the grain—a result of our process.

Buob's Beer or Ale is invigorating because it contains the tonic properties of the choicest hops.

Buob's Beer or Ale is a pure drink because it is made under cleanly and sanitary conditions.

Buob's Beer or Ale is the ideal home beverage because it contains a very small percentage of alcohol (3 1/2%). It is a truly temperate drink, invigorating and healthful.

Order a case for the home today. Have it always in the house.

THE STATE TAX.

Governor McGovern said in his opening speech in Milwaukee that a great deal is being said of the economy of the Peck administration ending in 1894, claiming the expenses then were $3,000,000, and that in 1912 they were $13,000,000. "The fact is," said the governor, the figures are incorrect for both years. The governor is right, for in 1894, they were, according to the state treasurer's books, but $2,966,863.02, and in 1912 $13,864,193.04, and no juggling can make the figures anything else.

If the population of the state had quadrupled, since 1894, there would be something to show for the heavy increase in taxes, but the growth of the state has been comparatively small and the same people are bearing the burden and groaning under the load. In an effort to "get the men" the new reform laws provide that all property shall be assessed at its real value. As a result, real estate in many places, is paying taxes on a fictitious rate, while industries are leaving the state because they can not endure the strain. There isn't a piece of property in Janesville today that can't be bought for less than the assessed valuation, and many pieces have been sold during the past year for less.

Not satisfied with all the impositions practiced on a long-suffering people, the income tax comes as the last straw to break the camel's back. This is not politics, but business, and the kind of business which the state of Wisconsin can no longer afford to tolerate.

The servants of the people have ceased to be servants and have assumed the roll of domineering monarchs. A lot of cheap, tin-horn commissions are sent out over the state to tell the people how to run their business, and the majesty of the law protects them.

It is high time for the men who pay the bills to arise in their might and turn the rascals out. The state is in this deplorable condition because it has been under the dictation of one man for nearly a decade. We have permitted him to name the law-makers, and they have done his bidding. As a result the people have descended to the level of serfs, with nothing to show for the title but a reputation of being the most progressive state in the union, and a chance to pay for the privilege.

The opportunity is now offered to get rid of the incubus, and if we don't improve it the blame is on us. There is no party obligation, so far as the state is concerned, and republicans have a perfect right to exercise their independence.

WILSON A FREE TRADER.

Albert B. Beveridge, the third term party candidate for governor of Indiana, in a speech in Detroit, recently said:

"Woodrow Wilson is a free trader. He is a more dangerous free trader than Grover Cleveland was because Mr. Wilson is a book free trader without a business experience; a free trader whose free trade ideas are still the exploded ones of a generation ago. And the democratic platform on which Mr. Wilson stands is a fanatically free trade platform which says that any protection whatever is unconstitutional."

"A vote for Woodrow Wilson is a vote for free trade, which, Mr. Beveridge asserted in his speech, would ruin the country. A vote for Roosevelt is half a vote for free trade. A vote for President Taft and the republican ticket assures a continuation of the protective system under which the country has prospered for fifty years, with the exception of the four distressing years when the democratic party was in control."

There is no doubt about where the democratic party stands on the question of protection. It is the same old party with a "tariff for revenue only" policy. Victory resulted in widespread disaster in 1892-93, and results will be the same if the party wins this year.

Governor Wilson may be a model of integrity, possessing reputation and character above reproach. He may be deluded by the notion that he can control his party, but no one else is deceived. The time to prevent the harm, which would mean a national calamity, is before it happens. Here are some things which the democratic House attempted to do at the last session of congress:

"The tariff legislation passed by the democratic house and courageously vetoed by the president, put machine tools on the free list. The production of machine tools in Cincinnati alone aggregates a value of $28,000,000 annually. Boots and shoes were placed on the free list. This threatens a tremendous industry employing hundreds of thousands of working men whose well-paid labor would be performed by foreign workmen."

"Cereals were also placed on the free list. This means that the products of the great fields of Canada and other grain-producing countries would come into this country without let or hindrance. The American farmers would suffer."

"Between June and September of this year, individual deposits in the national banks increased $66,000,000. Under a democratic administration next year they would decrease because American gold would be sent abroad to pay for foreign made goods. "These are facts. Nobody can tell what the extent of business ruination would be. We know, however, that history would repeat itself."

"Will the American people let these things happen? The activity among business men, working men and farmers to prevent a repetition of 1893 is the answer to the question. It is the important and significant feature of the progress of the campaign during the week now ending. It is giving increased impetus to the tide which was already turning toward President Taft."

The same old disposition, and the same old free trade policy. Give the party a free hand and the same old experience will follow. Nothing but the president's veto saved the country from disaster last summer. Can we afford to sacrifice such a president to gratify either personal or party ambition? Think about it seriously and you will find but one answer.

TO THE POINT.

"McGovern is straddling a sharp-edged rail, bellowing for nobody but McGovern. Was there ever such a coward in the governor's chair? Did we ever have a man before who would deny his birthright for the sake of office? Bah! what a spectacle! No wonder thousands of self-respecting republicans openly declare they will vote for Karel. Who wouldn't?" Former Governor Hoard in the Jefferson County Union.

This is strong advice from an old-time republican, but Mr. Hoard knows what he is talking about, for he has been behind the scenes and was at one time welcomed to the inner circle. The republican party is without a state leader, and the men associated with the governor, on a ticket with a stolen title, are so colorless that nobody knows where they stand on the great national issues.

The man who is attempting to guide the ship of state has shown his incompetency and the money required to keep the craft afloat indicates that it is unseaworthy. The good ship has been scuttled and it is time to change commanders and see if the damage can be repaired.

If Judge Karel is to be in command he must be surrounded by a list of officers and a crew in sympathy with him, or his efforts will be futile. A clean slate is the only hope of salvation. This is the paramount issue in Wisconsin.

The question of industrial education, which was discussed at the Twilight club last night, is of vital importance, because it is so extremely practical. Twenty-nine cities in the state are already working under the new law, and are much pleased with results. If Janesville is to share in its benefits the city must decide soon as permits expire October 21st. One manufacturer offered to furnish a lady teacher, at the close of the meeting last night.

Governor Wilson refuses to fight a man when he is down, and the people of the country appreciate his gentlemanly attitude in canceling all speaking engagements while the man he was opposing so strenuously is disabled. Other campaign speakers have also retired from the field. It is perhaps just as well that the tide of oratory has been checked. It was costing a lot of money and producing but little in the way of results.

The Flynn health lecturers will close tomorrow night. They are of vital importance to every man and woman who desires to prolong life and wants to know how to do it. This comes as near being a personal matter as anything can. Be your own doctor and live to be 100. Dr. Flynn tells you how to do it, and any mind of average intelligence can grasp the plan and work it out. If you are interested go and hear him tonight.

While the danger is not past, there is every reason to hope that Colonel Roosevelt will recover from the wound inflicted by his would-be assassin. His wonderful vitality and cheerful optimism are in his favor and unless blood poisoning results his recovery should be rapid. The eyes of the country will be centered on Mercy hospital until the crisis is past.

TO ASK COMMISSION FOR VISITING NURSE

Janesville Anti-Tuberculosis Society Brings Important Health Measure to Attention of City Councilmen.

At a meeting of the Executive Board of the Janesville Anti-Tuberculosis Association, held in the city hall yesterday afternoon, the matter of the employment of a visiting nurse was brought before the commission.

Thirty cities in the state have adopted this plan of improving hygienic conditions, and the local organization has the support of a thousand citizens who have at heart the moral, as well as sanitary conditions of our city.

Tuberculosis claims 2500 victims annually in this state alone, which means a monetary loss of 19,000,000 in hospitals, orphan asylums and money-wage. The disease is contagious and is found in shops, streets, cars, schools and homes.

There are at present many cases of tuberculosis in Janesville. Some of these are in the incipient stage, but medical advice or attendance is necessary, not only to the afflicted, but that the spread of the disease may be forestalled.

The duties of a Visiting Nurse embrace, first of all, sanitary measures, which are the foundations of morality, an which in the crisis of our civic affairs, is of supreme importance. The Commission has the subject under advisement, favorably impressed with the arguments presented by the members of the Board, and at their meeting on Thursday, will decide whether or not Janesville will be list-

DISCUSSED QUESTION OF BRIDGE REPAIRS

Committee of Three From Commercial Club Met With Board of Public Works This Morning.

F. E. Lane, James Fifield and F. S. Sheldon, a committee appointed from the Commercial club, met with the Board of Public Works this morning to discuss the advisability of making repairs to the Milwaukee street bridge. The committee will report their findings and opinions to the Commercial club at its next meeting. The Board of Public Works is holding up the proposed repairs subject to further investigation of the conditions of the piers, and will probably call in an expert authority from outside of the city before coming to a decision. After the last inspection of the bridge, which was quite recent, the board and city engineer were of the opinion that the piers were good for from twelve to fifteen years and that a deck which would last that length of time could be built for about $5,000. They were assisted in the inspection by John Welch, formerly bridge superintendent for the Chicago & Northwestern railway.

Mayor Fathers is of the opinion that a new bridge across the river on Milwaukee street would cost from $40,000 to $50,000, taking for granted that a re-enforced concrete structure would be the only kind worth considering. His estimate is based in part upon the experience of Eau Claire. That city was bonded for $250,000 for the construction of five concrete bridges.

DID NOT LOSE TIME IN STARTING TROUBLE

George Warrington, New Orleans Man Under Arrest Half an Hour After Arriving in City.

No time in starting trouble was lost by George Warrington, a New Orleans man, arrived in Janesville last evening. Half an hour after he alighted from the train he was placed under arrest by Patrolman Sam Brown, charged with accosting two young ladies. Warrington is said to have spoken to two third ward young ladies near the Reliable Drug store, and to have seized them by the arms. They succeeded in breaking away and ran into the store. Warrington following Warrington was arraigned in the municipal court this morning on a charge of assault and entered a plea of "not guilty." His trial was set for ten o'clock Friday morning. Warrington told the judge that he had been drinking some before he arrived in Janesville. He related a hard luck story to the effect that his wife was in a New Orleans hospital, his seven year old boy in an orphanage, and that he had just come to Janesville to work in the sugar factory. He is about forty-five years old.

Word was received this morning of the death of Mrs. Minnie Jones Bradley at her home in Minoqua last night. The remains will be brought here for interment at Oak Hill cemetery, arriving this evening. Later Mr. and Mrs. Bradley moved to Beloit and a few years ago went to Minoqua, where many Janesville residents have spent weeks during the summer months at her hotel. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, Michael Bradley, an adopted son, Harry and a sister Mrs. Chas. Cummings of Beloit. The funeral will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at Christ Episcopal church.

ADJOURNED FINLEY TRIAL ELEVEN DAYS

Attorney For Defendant Presents Physician's Certificate Showing That Defendant is Ill.

Trial of the case of the City versus Richard F. Finley was adjourned this morning to Monday, October 28, at the request of Attorney M. O. Mout of the firm of Mout, Oestreich and Avery, attorneys for the defendant, who presented the certificate of Mr. Finley's physician attesting that the defendant was too ill to appear in court and that he would probably be confined to his home for ten days or two weeks.

City Attorney William H. Dougherty protested against any further postponement of the case and asked that the case be tried at once. He argued that the defendant was not personally involved in the case in that he had no cognizance of the facts, and that therefore the case would be tried without his being present. Attorney Mout replied that Mr. Finley would have to stand the consequence in the case of conviction and that he was entitled to be present at the trial. He would be needed as a witness. Judge Fifield stated that he would like to see the case tried as soon as possible but in view of the fact that a court has never refused to adjourn a trial in case of the illness of the defendant he felt himself bound to grant the request of Mr. Finley's attorney.

J. T. Hooper, superintendent of the Blind Institute, and Philip Hudson and Joseph Graebner, the two blind boys to whom the Finley saloon is alleged to have sold liquor on September 14 were in court prepared to give testimony.

galleries in securing a settlement in the coal strike? Did he play to the galleries when he solved the Panama situation in one night thwarting Colombia in her attempt to land troops on the isthmus? Or when the powers threatened to divide China, did he play to the galleries when he insisted on the "open door" policy? He did not in these cases or in the bringing to peace terms the Russian and Japanese governments and in many other instances. He possessed the courage and bravery which commanded the respect of the world."

The speaker revealed briefly the Colonel's rise to power and dwelt on some of the great movements which he had fostered chief among which was conservation. He then answered the question why he was a Bull Moose by pointing to the great humanitarian principles contained in the Roosevelt platform which, he said, made it really religious in its doctrines. "This platform shows a disposition to meet the demands of the times; it is alive to the issue of the hour. It realizes that there are millions of unprotected foreigners in the country that need the protection of the American people; it takes cognizance of the fact that one tenth of the population controls capital; it treats practically and simply the problems between capital and labor; it stands for brotherhood and manhood; it looks to the larger things."

Defends State Progressives. While you may criticize him and call him a fanatic and a drunkard, it must be remembered that this has happened before. Martin Luther was called a licentious monk, George Washington was branded a thief and a scoundrel, and Abraham Lincoln was besmirched and blackened. Colonel Roosevelt and his party stand for equal opportunity and social justice and when his principles are established the men and women of America shall know that this is a country for the people, of the people and by the people."

Marshall Richardson, who came forward with a defense of the state administration in two respects concerning which it has been most criticized, extravagance in expenditures and the income tax, waded into the treatment of his topic with not a little heat. There have been no subjects discussed concerning which there has been so much willful misrepresentation and unseeing ignorance as these he charged. He blamed the newspapers for the attitude which they had taken at times and he "wondered why the newspapers of the city didn't get the facts in the case instead of repeating stories over and over again."

He recalled charges made by members of the Twilight club on one occasion last year that the state university and present administration was wasteful and took up the question to show that expenditures were not exorbitant, and that the income tax law really was no hardship. He gave some little time to the matter of land purchased for the state with the purpose of showing that the land was really worth the amount paid.

Sees No Extravagance. In the matter of public expenditures he said, the actual figures were about ten and a half millions. Of this amount some three and a half millions was distributed directly back to the various cities and townships for local school purposes, the state simply acting in the capacity of a distributor. This left seven millions expended. Of this amount the average taxpayers pay about one million dollars. The other six million are contributed, he said, by the railroads, the express and insurance companies, the street railway companies, and through the inheritance taxes.

In regard to commission which were called expensive he challenged anyone to note how their expenses could be lessened or how the state could do without them. Concerning the university he pointed out that there were ten times the students there were twenty years ago and the apparatus and equipment required to make it, the efficient institution that it is, were most necessary.

He pointed to the fact that but ten percent of the income tax receipts went to the state, 15 percent going to the county and 75 percent to the city or township. In addition the state collected the tax at a cost of $80,000 or an increase of some $25,000, while opponents of the measure said it would take the entire amount collected. The total tax, he said, would be three millions.

Matheson Makes Reply. "Not a farmer in the state of Wisconsin will pay an income tax," said Mr. Richardson. "And why? Because the receipts for his tax on farm animals offset the amount of his income tax, and in the case of merchants and manufacturers the merchants and bank stocks will also largely diminish the amount of income tax that they pay."

The speaker insisted that Wisconsin had increased in wealth doubling in twelve years during progressive administration. In the same proportion taxes should be doubled. Mr. Matheson sought to reply to Mr. Richardson. He said that he gave his figures, which were correct, in his address a year ago, to compare expenditures now with those of former years. And he was ready to again assert that the state expenses were far more excessive than they should be under economical administration. "Why don't they ask the farmer to pay the income tax? Would you like to know, Mr. Leader? Well, I'll tell you. Because the men in power in this state know that the farmers exert a certain powerful political influence over things and it is dangerous to antagonize them." In closing his remarks, Mr. Matheson said he hadn't gotten everything out of his system yet and intended to embrace an opportunity some other time to further point out present day abuses in state affairs.

Miles Gives Fine Talk. The matter of industrial education was very convincingly treated by Mr. Miles, who also spoke here a week ago before the convention of women's clubs. In his address last night he explained his interest in the problem and how he had undertaken a study of it from the view point of a man who employed men and faced some of the difficulties it was the purpose of industrial education to remedy. He pointed out how the cultural side of education had been emphasized in the American common school system. This was as it should be in the early days because it was not until two generations ago that the complex conditions of factory life were very keenly felt. In the former days the boys learned their trade with their fathers and only required a cultural training in the schools. Figures showing the percentage of boys and girls leaving school as they enter the adolescent age, were cited. They go out into the various occupations open to them without guidance and without instruction. He pointed to Germany with her continuation schools where the young people are required to go to school a part of each week and how the state goes with the children into their trades teaching, and encouraging, so that young people learned to enjoy their work, solving many problems of discontent and greatly increasing industrial standards of efficiency.

Mr. Miles gave a very exhaustive treatment of the subject and referred to the Wisconsin law. Referring to Janesville's attitude in the matter he said, "I understand that there has been a sentiment here against industrial education. There have been some who have said don't put so much money into this sort of thing, and the question of the constitutionality of the law has been raised. What do you care about the legality of the law? What you care about is whether or not you are shutting the door on your children, whether you are giving them a chance to learn their work thoroughly so they will like it, so they will become useful and loyal citizens."

"Last year in Racine we spent $4,800 on the industrial school. When I returned from Janesville last week after learning the conditions here, I was met by the Racine board who wanted an allowance of over $13,000 for next year and wanted to establish two schools. If you people in Janesville won't give your people this kind of training, all right they will get it. They will go to Racine and those towns won't have the boys and girls in Janesville to train."

Following his able exposition of the industrial school question Mr. Miles told of the attempted murder of Col. Roosevelt in Milwaukee. This was an interesting story which differed little except in certain personal references from the accounts given in the press dispatches. He told of an interview with the would-be assassin and said the man seemed clean and intelligent. He talked frankly and willingly and gave the third term idea as the cause for his actions. "The only thing about him which indicated insanity was this, peculiar stories about his dreams."

Dougherty on Taft. Mr. Dougherty in his brief address in behalf of the republican party and Mr. Taft said that he had enjoyed affiliation with nearly every political party there was. When in school he had been a socialist, acquiring his ideas in his ramblings around, of which he said, he did considerable. The principle which impressed him in this party, he said, was that we poor suckers weren't getting what's coming to us, which was something of the sentiment of the Roosevelt propaganda today. The fallacy lay in the fact that people didn't think of what they were worth but of what they wanted. Later Mr. Dougherty said he became a democrat, but was driven from those ranks by William Jennings Bryan when he espoused certain doctrines on his return from his "finishing course" around the world, and the republican party was thereby strengthened.

Speaking seriously Mr. Dougherty declared that the people must look to the republican party for practical solution of present day difficulties. It was a party to apply organized principles and was not a theoretical relic of a bygone uplift movement. He referred to Governor Wilson's statement that he had taught his classes in Princeton for twenty years that the principle of the initiative, referendum and recall, was false, and then suddenly confessed that this was all wrong and turned completely to an espousal of those doctrines. Such a man as that, Mr. Dougherty said, was entitled to no consideration at all. He dismissed him on that statement alone.

The speaker said he was for Taft because he stood for those great principles of government embodied in the American constitution. He recognizes fundamental principles of government which stand as the ten commandments of the state for religion. Mr. Taft stands for progress through orderly channels and not for a system which will breed disgust and disorders as the result of a lot of bad legislation. The republican party is loyal to the fundamentals of American liberty and government which entitled it to the most profound consideration.

Hooper Defends University. Mr. Hooper, of the State School for the Blind arose following Mr. Dougherty's address and desired to be heard on the matter of the state university which he defended as the greatest force for development which the state has seen. He pointed to the many different ways in which it has aided the state and what it has done, declaring that it has justified the expenditures connected with it a hundred fold. He asked anyone to give a specific instance of extravagance.

At the business part of the session it was decided to discuss the question "The Public Institutions of Janesville," the idea being to treat especially the moral conditions as they have recently been brought to notice. George G. Sutherland was named for the leader.

At the December meeting at which the state penal institutions will be discussed, Mr. J. T. Hooper will be the leader.

The report of the home improvement contest was presented by Mr. Grant who moved that the plan be continued for another year. This was carried and the club will again devote $25 to the cause.

It was voted on motion of J. J. Cunningham to send a message of regard to D. D. Maine, founder of the club.

There was a good attendance at the gathering and all enjoyed a four course dinner which was served in an efficient manner by a corps of young ladies.

ATTACKED PARENTS FOR THEIR LAXITY

Reverend David Beaton Talks Before Milwaukee Audience Last Evening.

According to the Milwaukee Free Press, Dr. Beaton did not mince matters in his address in Milwaukee last evening. "Pure, uncontaminated blood is the first heritage of young America. We have no right to deny our children this privilege. One of the greatest curses of the times are those people who say: 'There is no sin and no disease.' Let the church stand for pure blood." Members of the Milwaukee Congregational club, at the seventy-first meeting at Grand Avenue Congregational church last night heard these statements in the address of the Rev. David Beaton, Janesville, Wis., on "Young America; Our Coming Citizenship," which was, in part, an arraignment of the laxity of modern parents in the upbringing of their children.

"There is moral danger in the possession of wealth by young people. Indulgence in all the worldly pleasures is the natural outcome of allowing them to do as they please and go where they will during the critical period of their lives, when they are ripening into young manhood and womanhood. Especially is this true in college life, for they have less restraint and temptations often are greater."

There are too many non-producers, men in professional lines who should be producers. In this we show that we are only playing with education. Give the education of the child to the state. It is its prerogative, for the child is its chief physical asset. Church and private schools rob their pupils of an education of democracy."

Fads and Fashions

New York, Oct. 16.—One of the most striking features of the new models exhibited in the shops just now is the predominance of the thick, soft wools. They are wonderfully light in weight and very beautiful, but they are not easy to handle successfully. Some of the most beautiful and modish of these thick wools are plain or mixed velours, de laine, peau de chamois, and peau d'agneau, which have soft, chamois-like surfaces; cut velours, which is a wool velour in which lines have soft, chamois-like surfaces; cut velours in which lines have been cut, exposing a foundation of contrasting color which shows like an undershot pin stripe; tulle-tyl, which is wool eponge, wool corduroy, a soft thick wool corded like corduroy, zibelines in various new weaves, raine plain or broche, and pavement block diagonal and striped velours de laine.

There are many other similar materials with countless variations. They are all lovely in texture and coloring, but in spite of all the importers say that these materials, though light in weight, will be too warm for comfort except in very cold weather and will collect dust too readily. Still they are preeminently the mode, and while serges, chevrons, corded stuffs of the London and Paris types and similar tailoring materials are still acceptable and correct for the coat and skirt costume, the fad of the moment is the tailored costume of the thicker and softer wool.

Combination of plain and brocade tulle-tyl are new and effective and the use of matelasse in association with plain material is one of the new season's innovations. The effect is not always happy, but in some cases it is exceedingly so, and very many of the costumes have been built up entirely of the matelasse which looks very much like a particularly handsome brocade silk zennapa cloth, though its texture is lighter, softer, and altogether different.

A good deal of fur is used on both frocks and suits, often appearing as a mere touch and in unexpected places. One of the French makers has sent out several choice models in cut velvet, giving the effect of pin stripe velvet on a chiffon foundation. These models have a neck finish of fur, a very narrow line of skunk or sable running around the front and sides of the bodice neck just at the base of the throat, but oddly dipping down in a slight point at the back.

On evening gowns of the sheerest sorts lines of fur often border the draperies or finish the little sleeves. There was, for example, a very charming model in which the white tulle collection which was of white tulle and white satin. The short, loose sleeves and shoulders were of fine lace, and from the shoulder yoke surprise draperies of tulle were drawn softly into a narrow girdle. The skirt had an overdress of tulle, tucked around the sides and back and drawn forward a little toward the front, leaving the satin underskirt in view from the knees but meeting under a bow of tulle at knee height. The surprise drapery and the skirt were bordered narrowly with drapery and lines of the dark fur entered into the tulle bow on the skirt.

Everything in overdress that produces a line wider above the knees than below, that is tucked up or drawn softly away from the front, is dubbed pannier drapery, though it may be a very far cry from the panniers of old or even from the panniers of the last spring season. And most of the draped skirts come under this head. Very narrow, is at least hip and narrow in effect even when platted, but the overdress is full enough to broaden the silhouette a trifle and some times it even approaches the bouffant.

There is a good deal of skirt drapery, falling straight, long and clinging on the right side, but caught up in some modified pannier puff fashion at the left front, the long line usually including the front and lending dignity to the figure, while the drapery at the left makes concession to the vogue of drapery movement. A simple cloth frock in blue and black fine stripes, displayed in one of the shops, showed a pleasing version of this one-sided drapery arrangement and had a clever unpretentious trimming of tiny black drops set on to simulate a wide band.

There are many smart cloth frocks, all much longer than the French models than American women are in the habit of wearing. All of them touch the ground, most of them even trail a bit, but as a rule they could be made shorter without losing their grace, an arrangement which would make them suitable for American wearers, who do not like the idea of wearing a trailing skirt on the street. Long sleeves have beyond question arrived. For that matter, they arrived last season, but only a few took them seriously. Now one sees little else save model intended for house wear or evening purposes, though occasionally a smart visiting frock has a three-quarter sleeve finished by some sort of soft draped cuff or frill.

Soft white waists developed in fancy nets, and handmade laces and all-overs of fine pattern have elaborate designs worked out in colored satin, tinsel, chiffon and velvet ribbon. Ribbon designs are brought out in relief on the fronts, sleeves and upper portion of the back. Pale blue, yellow, rose or lavender satin is used in tubular style, the filling of tan being sufficient to give a triumphant about the circumference of a pencil. More delicate designs are worked out in the floral patterns, padded flowers being made of tinsel and chiffon. The rest of the design being worked out in hand embroidery. Small forget-me-not patterns are brought out with small black velvet flowers on white chenille, and silk embroidery is employed to bring out the rest of the design. These color suggestions on white being handworked are particularly effective.

Cut on similar lines to white waists are the colored models, these often showing the white combination in the finishing arrangement, including the high neck finish. The back and slightly cut-out section in front, and the directive collar with lace revers, or frills, and the narrow-satin vest. White charmeuse waists appear with black, blue, amber or corse trimmings touches. Both amber and rhinestone buttons are seen on the smartest models. There is much variety in two-toned buttons, some of these being worked out in charmeuse. Some of the ball-buttons are covered with the lower side with the white charmeuse, and on the top with a circular arrangement of blue. In many instances the sleeves come well over the hand, and are finished off with lace, frills or turnback cuffs and frills.

There is a great deal of tulle used in the form of scarfs, sashes, shawls, sleeves and gloves. Metalized tulle are very much favored, and there are certain wraps for evening

Saved From Dreadful Death.

An extraordinary scene occurred in the cemetery at Zura, Galicia, during the funeral recently of a local land owner. The priest had given his benediction to the departed and the coffin had been lowered into the grave and the family and friends were throwing clouds on it, when suddenly hollow cries for help broke from the grave. Most of the mourners ran away panic-stricken, while the priest and sextons got out the coffin and opened the lid. To their amazement, they found the supposed dead man alive. He soon recovered and was able to walk home unaided. He is now perfectly well.

SAVED HIS SON

From Constitutional Decline. So many cases like this are coming to our attention for the benefit of fathers and mothers of weak, sickly, ailing children in this vicinity we publish the following letter.—Mr. Richard Rusk of Columbus, Ind., says: "I believe am indebted to the valuable medicinal properties of Vinol for the health of my little son Dale. He had a severe attack of whooping cough and measles, which affected his lungs and general constitution. We tried several other remedies without benefit, then commenced using Vinol and I take pleasure in acknowledging my confidence in its restorative and reconstructive virtues, for my little son is the picture of health now, all due to the use of Vinol."

This is because the child needed the strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains. No oil, delicious taste. Child loves it. We give back your money if Vinol does not do all we claim. Smith Drug Co. Advertisement.

F. J. BAILEY & SON

The area of high barometer that has prevailed throughout the interior of the country for the past few days is moving eastward toward the Atlantic coast. Fair weather has continued under its influence, and the temperature has been frosty in the mornings on account of the radiation of heat from the ground during the night. This effect has been especially marked in New England, where killing frosts were reported this morning.

Another area of low barometer is moving through western Canada and is causing southerly winds, with rising temperature on the Plains. No rain has attended this disturbance except locally on the north Pacific coast.

The barometer is still low in the Gulf of Mexico, and rain has fallen generally on the Gulf coast.

Owing to the cool weather we have had there has not been a very great demand for lemons this season and they are of an excellent quality. They are bringing 40 cents a dozen. The fruit market remains about the same and there is not much change in prices. The household cucumbers seem to be the favorite of the vegetable market at present. They are the first of the season. Noted Soldier 85 Years Old.

London, Oct. 16.—The observance a week or so ago of the 80th birthday of Lord Roberts served to call attention today to the 85th birthday of another noted British soldier, General Sir William Gordon Cameron. General Cameron began his military career nearly 70 years ago and took part in almost every important war and military expedition in which British arms have been engaged from the Crimean war in the '50s until his retirement from the service in 1895.

SUPPOSED INSANE MAN PLACED UNDER ARREST

Thomas Atkinson Held at Police Station and Will Probably Be Examined for Sanity.

Thomas Atkinson, a Janesville man, was taken in custody late this morning by Chief of Police George Appleby and Patrolman John Brown. Atkinson has been acting strangely for some time and his relatives have been afraid that he would do himself some harm. This morning he was seen near the railway bridge with his coat and hat off and it was feared that he was going to jump into the river. When captured he was unloading paper from a car on North River street, and it took two men to throw back on the car what he threw off. It is understood that he will be promptly examined whether or not he is insane.

Hygienic Nightwear for Men, Women and Children

Here's more comfort and health for all the family. You've doubtless read in the Good Housekeeping Magazine about the Brighton Sleeping System.

We handle a full line of the celebrated Brighton Sleeping Garments. These garments are made out of soft high grade outing flannel. They are extra long and extra wide in body and skirt. So fashioned as to offer more comfort and security from cold air than you ever knew. Thousands of parents have put these garments on their children and wear them themselves. They are well made, healthful and economical. In fact, you can buy none more so. They wear well, wash beautifully and the buttons are sewed on to stay. The nightshirts and nightgowns are draped from the shoulder and gathered in the back. In the Night Gowns, there is an extraordinary amount of bust room, meaning greater comfort than a vast number of women are used to. Both Night Gowns and Night Shirts are cut extra wide in body and skirt, and are extra long. In construction nothing has been overlooked. Remember, this nightwear costs no more than other makes. The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

INDEFINITE BARGAINS.

A FRIEND of mine who lives near the high school, has taken a little country girl into her family for the school term. This girl is going to help her with the children and the sewing in return for her board and room.

My friend was telling me about this arrangement. "How much time will she give you?" I asked. "Oh, I don't know," said the lady airily, "I suppose she will help me whenever I need her."

Can't you see trouble ahead for those two?

If there is anything on earth that makes for dissatisfaction and misunderstandings any more surely than an indefinite arrangement like that, an exchange in which it is not nominated in the bond exactly what each party gets, I have yet to find it.

Usually one party is badly cheated and invariably both parties think they are.

Two old neighbors of mine used to be very dear friends until one summer they foolishly entered into a compact that the horse of the party of the first part should be occasionally allowed to graze in the field of the party of the second part, in exchange for the occasional use of said horse by the party of the second part. Needless to say these two dear friends no longer speak.

A young matron who was clever with her needle consented to help one of her young girl friends with her sewing and the young girl was fond of children, and both thought this would bring them a pleasant change of occupation, and would be an ideal arrangement. So it might have been if they had made any definite contract. As it was each woman began to go to mutual friends, complaining that she was giving at least twice as much of her time as the other, and through the kind services of the mutual friends in passing the word along, these two also no longer speak.

Of course, everyone who enters into one of these indefinite arrangements thinks that between friends there is no need of a definite contract. In reality, the closer the friendship, the greater the need of definiteness, because the tie is too precious to risk breaking.

If you are going to make some exchange like this, why not reduce the services rendered to a common denominator of time or money value, and then negotiate a fair exchange.

Believe me, you will run far less risk of heart burning and dissatisfaction than if you contented yourself with some vague and indefinite arrangement.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Smoked fish are now put on the market in greater quantities than ever before, and many purchasers are coming to regard them as the most palatable form of food, creamed or broiled fish. Mackerel, which for years was only sold fresh caught or salted, is now among our most popular smoked fish, they flip-flop into our market along with their insatiable friend the codfish and his first cousin, the flounder haddock.

They afford a healthy, desirable and delightful and economical food, and are all prepared for the table in the same manner. The fresh smoked fish are considered more palatable than those that have been longer kept so that this month, when the early catch is offered for sale, will see them used in great quantities though we still have daily catches of fresh fish offered.

Sturgeon steak and whole smoked sturgeon are eaten for lunches and between-meals-snacks without further cooking. From the roe of the sturgeon caviar is made, and so far have we progressed in producing this delicacy that we took first prize at the Berlin exhibition a few years since, to the great chagrin of the Russians, who for years have enjoyed a monopoly of the manufacture.

After the fish are caught they are sorted in sizes, the largest are sliced, the smaller ones used whole. First they are cleaned and placed in a

FRIVOLOUS FRANCIS.
(1) I should judge from it that you are an erratic young person. (2) If he's a good man and you love each other, his height makes no difference. (3) Very improper and inconsiderate of their feelings. A girl ought to engage herself only to the one man she expects to marry. (4) Brass buttons are not much used now. (5) Never, if he is older than she, unless he becomes some relation to her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young fellow 19 years old. I've been going with a girl for three years, but during that time I left her about three times for certain reasons. A short time ago I got good with her again and this time I really love her, but cannot come to her home on account of things. I've done before my leaving her some relation to her. I am now. She told me she could only depend upon me she would go against her parents. Please advise me.

BROKEN HEARTED.
About the kindest thing you can do for this girl is to keep away from her and give her an opportunity to love a real man. You are too young to be certain that you love her and to be sure that you will not cause her sorrow by your fickleness.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman of 23, married six years. My husband is 38 and has much older ways than I. He thinks I should obey his commands at all times and we are always quarreling. He is very jealous and thinks I fix up so people will get stuck on me. I am tired of this way of living. Please advise me.

UNHAPPY WIFE.
My dear the Lord made women more adaptable than men just so peace might be kept in the household. A man is a stubborn animal, but he can be a very nice sort if he's treated the right way. Suppose you stop quarreling with your husband. Let him think you are glad to meet his wishes and use sweetness and persuasion when he is stubborn or when you don't wish to obey him exactly. Let him understand that you want to look pretty, chiefly for him, and prove it by fixing up for him at home. You can make your happiness if you'll only try hard enough and forget that you have a temper.

PANCAKES.

There are numerous varieties of pancakes, edible and otherwise, and even at their best they are not the easiest of foods to digest.

Crumb Pancakes.—Take two cupsful of bread crumbs soaked in milk until very soft. Add a little salt, a cupful each of sweet milk and butter milk, a teaspoonful of soda, and one egg, separating the white and beating the yolk until thick, the white until stiff. Add enough sifted flour to make a good batter, add the white of the egg and fry on a hot griddle.

Danish Pancakes.—Beat three eggs, separating the yolks from the whites; add a cup of flour, a pinch of salt and milk enough to make a batter. Add the eggs and dissolve a half teaspoonful of soda in a teaspoonful of vinegar; add and beat all together.

Green Corn Griddle Cakes.—To one cup of grated corn add a cup of milk, salt to season, a half teaspoonful of baking powder, one egg, and enough sifted flour to make a thin batter. Butter the cakes and serve with grated maple sugar.

Potato Pancakes.—Peel eight good-sized potatoes and cover with cold water. Grate rapidly on a coarse grater, add to the pulp four eggs well beaten, two teaspoonfuls of salt and half a cup of flour sifted with half a teaspoonful of baking powder. Mix well and bake on a hot griddle. Serve with butter. Germans add a little grated onion to the potato, which improves it, if you like onion.

Cold cereal, rice or hominy added to any batter makes fine griddle cakes and is a good way to use left-over breakfast foods.

Chicken Chowder.
Cut up the chicken and boil slowly until done. While the chicken is cooking fry out one-fourth pound of salt pork in separate kettle, and fry six onions in pork fat. Soak one-half pound crackers in milk and put the chicken, onions, crackers and pork in layers in the kettle. Season with salt and pepper. Thicken with two tablespoonfuls of flour and let it boil up together.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

by Barbara Boyd

A Movement for Beauty

TWO women, strangers to each other, were in a little observation room, provided by a city, on top of one of its hills, to view the beautiful prospects to be gained from this point. While they waited for the fog to lift, so that the view could be obtained, they examined the observatory and dropped into casual chat.

"Why will parents," said one, as she studied the walls of the room, "permit children to deface property in this way?" and she pointed out all sorts of hideous faces drawn in pencil on the walls, and also to hundreds of names cut into the wood of the building.

Her question recalled to the other woman the story of one of our foremost poets. This poet, years ago when he could not get his poems accepted, because editors said the people didn't want poetry, decided to go about from house to house, and village to village, and teach the young people to love beauty, so that they would grow up to be a generation of beauty lovers. This he did, and his work has borne wonderful and unexpected fruit.

Following his example, instead of forbidding the children to do certain things, why not waken in them a love for beauty, so that they will not want to deface any building and that, as they grow up, they will frown upon the placing of hideous advertisements everywhere to irritate the eye and temper.

We can, if we will, make this the most beautiful country in the world. We have the means right within our own boundaries. This is shown in many ways, but strikingly in the new capitol building of St. Paul. As you wander through this great building and gaze on the beautiful marbles from Tennessee and Vermont, the many kinds of granite from many states, the lovely rose-colored and other beautifully toned stones from other parts of the country, the paintings and statues by American artists you realize all at once what wondrous beauty our own country can produce.

All this loveliness is right among us, waiting development and appreciation. What we need to do is to train the sense of the beautiful, so that we will make use of this wealth, and in so doing we will set a standard of beauty the world has never yet known.

So instead of forbidding the children to deface property, let us so develop the love of beauty that they will not want to do it. Let us help them to realize what marvelous opportunity is theirs to create beauty, and they will enthusiastically join in the effort to make this the Land of Loveliness.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

by Edna K. Wooley

DAD COULD DO NO WRONG.
"I had the best-natured father you ever saw, but he would never, under any circumstances, admit that he was wrong," remarked a certain young acquaintance the other day.

"It led to some laughable situations," he continued. "Other things he was something of a cook and took every opportunity to display his ability in that direction. He was a master hand at pancakes. I remember, especially those of the buckwheat persuasion. When it happened that mother was away from home, or not feeling well enough to get breakfast, we children looked forward to father's pancakes."

"Mother was away one morning when father had buckwheats for breakfast. I remember I sat down to the table ready for a treat. Those pancakes certainly looked good to me. But the first taste discouraged my appetite. I noticed the other children didn't act enthusiastic about their pancakes, either."

"Dad," said I, "did you make these cakes with soda and sour milk same as always?"

"Of course I did," he replied. "Didn't you leave out the soda this time?" I inquired.

"Well, where'd you get the soda?" I suspiciously asked.

"Right out of that box over there," he said, pointing to what looked like a box of soda, sitting on the kitchen table.

"I went over and looked at the box," "Why, dad," I exclaimed, showing it to him, "this is starch."

"Father gazed solemnly over his glasses at me, and the starch box. "That ain't the box!" he mildly but firmly asserted.

"And I always thought father was in the right, no matter how brazenly he denied absolute proofs," laughed the young fellow.

"I was pretty well grown before I discovered that father might possibly make mistakes or be in the wrong about anything. Really, I think, it's a proper attitude for parents to take, if they are good-natured about it. I know I had an immense respect for father and his opinions, and even when I got old enough to know his weakness about never admitting himself in the wrong, I looked upon it tolerantly and continued to appreciate his many excellencies."

"One time I thought I had father where he simply had to admit the situation."

"Umph!" said he. "You ROLLED me over."

"And that settled it!"

DR. WILEY ADVOCATES WHOLE WHEAT FOR BREAKFAST.

That wheat ground in a home mill and cooked in a fireless cooker is much superior to any prepared breakfast food is the opinion of Dr. Wiley, late head of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture.

Some of the prepared breakfast foods are not only largely deprived of their nutritive qualities by excessive roasting but they are highly irritating, as can easily be determined by attempting to live on such food exclusively for any considerable time. Entire wheat ground and cooked in a double boiler or fireless cooker would support life well indefinitely, but an attempt to live on any of the ready-to-eat foods exclusively would soon show its inferiority.

African Dwarf Elephants.

An English official in Uganda claims to have seen a herd of dwarf elephants, the existence of which has often been affirmed by natives. When recently seen the company consisted of from 30 to 40 individual elephants mending in solitary fashion over a plain. The observer was most astonished at the weak defenses offered by their bodies. None of them had a tusk of more than ten kilograms in weight. A dead member of the flock was afterward found, the tusk of which weighed but eight kilograms.

"Before we plead guilty," replied the man's lawyer, "we'd like to know what the fine will be." "Isn't it rather unusual to attempt to bargain with the court?" asked the judge. "Perhaps it is, your honor," replied the lawyer, "but in this case the prisoner has only $12, and as my fee is $10, we can't afford to plead guilty if you intend to fine him more than $2."—Youth's Companion.

Blackheads are a local condition. Any one is liable to have them. It depends on the condition of the pores at the time. Blackheads cannot be prevented or removed by washing or steaming. I have never known anything which would remove and prevent them except the formula which I have used myself with marvelous results. First wash the face with hot water and soap. Then sprinkle some peroxide generously upon the skin. Rub with wet water. Then rub well for a few minutes on the parts of the skin which are affected with blackheads. This done, rub the face with warm water, and dry. You should be able to secure the peroxide at any drugstore for fifty cents.

FEELICA.—I have never approved of drying, staining or bleaching the hair. Stains and bleaches must contain strong acids to do the work at all. This ruins the life right out of the hair. You complain of short hair, and dandruff. A marvelous hair grower is the one I use myself. As proof of what it does I never have to use rat-tails or switches. For the dandruff, however, use the tonic I give you here. Also, shampoo I give below to Mrs. C. L. M.

With a halfpint of water mix half a pint of alcohol. To this add one ounce of benzoin. Shake thoroughly, and it will then be ready to use. If you prefer, you can use imported bay rum instead of the water and alcohol. The benzoin you can get at almost any drugstore for not more than fifty cents.

MRS. C. L. M.—Dandruff can be entirely stopped. Your scalp pores should be cleaned, and the scurf removed. This shampoo will do it. Dissolve one teaspoonful of egg yolk in half a cup of hot water. When entirely dissolved and the solution has become lukewarm, pour onto the hair and shampoo in the usual manner. It makes an exquisite lather. After rubbing it well into the scalp so it is perfectly clean, wash the hair thoroughly with plenty of warm water, and rub with cold water. The drugstore will let you have the egg yolk for not more than twenty-five cents. Use also the hair tonic, the formula for which I have given to "Felicia."

HOPEFUL.—Your superabundant hair problem is easily solved by the use of simple, safe solution is unexpected for the purpose. It leaves the skin as smooth and clean as a baby's. The hair will fall out, and the hair will grow again. Apply this solution freely with the finger tips on the hair you want removed. Keep the hair moist with it until it has dissolved. This will take but two or three minutes. Then wipe off with a warm, damp cloth and wash the skin with warm water.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a man of 23 and have a good job. I am in love with a young married woman. She is willing to leave her man to come with me. Is it wrong for me to take her if she is willing? E. D.

Whether she is willing or not, you should protect her from evil doing, and it would certainly be wrong for her to leave her husband and go away with another man. The time will surely come when you will regret it. If you do anything wrong, a man and woman who sin together always learn to hate each other.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Does my handwriting show any character? (2) Ought a girl to marry a man shorter than she is? (3) Is it really improper for a girl to be engaged to two men at once, especially if she does not know which one she likes best? (4) Do brass buttons look pretty on a blue suit? (5) How soon should a girl call a man by his first name?

Don't Be Fussy About Eating

Your Stomach Will Digest Any Kind of Food When Given the Proper Assistance.

We are prone to fall into the error of singling out some article of food and soundly berating the fiend who first invented the dish. The habit grows with some people. Almost all food is put on the blacklist. This is all wrong. What is required is a little assistance with those agencies upon which scientific students for many years have set their seal of approval because they have become absolute facts. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for all stomach disorders are recognized; they have a fine record; they are rated reliable, dependable and worthy of confidence just as the president of a big bank puts his O. K. on a depositor's check. And so you can eat what you want, whatever you like, knowing well that should indigestion, sour risings, gas formations, fermentations or any other stomach distress arise, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in a few moments will put you right.

Coated tongue, bad breath, heartburn, belching, flatulency, bloating—all the symptoms of digestive troubles disappear quickly when these tablets are used. They are not a cure for anything but dyspepsia and kindred complaints. But they have brought relief to more sufferers from digestive diseases than all the patent medicines and doctor's prescriptions put together.

The stomach does the heaviest work of any of the bodily organs, yet it is the one we treat with the least regard. We eat too much of the wrong kind of food at any time. The patient stomach stands such treatment as long as it can and then it rebels. You get notice of the rebellion in the shape of the gases and pains caused by undigested, fermenting food.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold and recommended by all druggists at 50c a box.

PROBLEMS OF FOOD DISCUSSED BY FLYNN

MOST PEOPLE SUFFERING FROM POISONS RESULTING FROM OVEREATING.

APPETITE IS DECEIVER

Hunger Natural and Safe Guide To Eat—Thorough Mastication Essential to Health.

"Most people are dying from over-eating; they are carrying around with them distilleries running full blast, and are intoxicated with the poisons thrown off in the fermentation of food which they do not assimilate. They are the victims of appetite. Appetite is a false guide to when and what to eat; it is a deceiver, an acquired passion caused by the accumulation of these poisons in the tissues. Hunger is a natural and safer guide."

This thought expressed by W. Earl Flynn, was but one of a large number of the striking and illuminating statements made during his address at the Cargill Methodist church last evening. For the fourth time, Mr. Flynn spoke to an attentive audience, which filled nearly every pew in the church, and there is no doubt that the audience would have been considerably larger, had not his address conflicted with the meeting of the Twilight Club. Mr. Flynn opened his talk by inviting and answering questions on food and diet in order to gain an idea of just what phases of the subject his audience would be interested in. The queries put were numerous and occupied a considerable portion of the speaker's time.

One of the first questions put to Mr. Flynn was an inquiry as to what his objections were to breakfast.

"My objection to breakfast," he said in reply, "is that it is superfluous, a waste of food, and a waste of the energies of the body. At the time breakfast is eaten the energy created from the evening meal has not been used up, it is still in the tissues. It is as sensible to eat breakfast as it would be for an engineer of a locomotive after filling up his tender with water and coal and generated a full head of steam to pile on coal and water until they spilled all over the track."

"Excess of food causes auto-intoxication. It is possible that in more civilized countries more people die because of the failure of the body to eliminate waste than because of inability to procure the food necessary to sustain life. Most of our ailments, as well as our constant failure to attain the highest physical efficiency are due to the accumulation of unhealthy waste which can not be carried away by the bodily machinery. The accumulations of these poisonous products is now thought to be the cause of the feeling of fatigue."

Mr. Flynn did not advise his hearers to immediately "save off" eating breakfast, but he advocated a trial of a week or two, and assured them that they would find themselves feeling better and stronger in every respect. "Don't try to quit breakfast, coffee, tea, and meat, all at the same time," cautioned the speaker. "If you do, you might have fits, or some ailment that corresponds to delirium tremens in the liquor drinker. Begin easy, and the change will give you little trouble."

"Man was never intended to be a meat eating animal," said Mr. Flynn. "If he had been intended to eat meat he would have been given a short intestine, more powerful gastric juices in the stomach, jaws that move only vertically, and other special equipment of the carnivorous animal. Meat is largely a stimulant. You will find yourself eating more food with meat than without it. Uric acid is produced in the blood through the failure of the kidneys to throw off the waste from meat. This acid is deposited in different parts of the body, and are pushed back into the blood as you weaken or grow old, causing disease. Nature presents her bill when you are least able to meet it."

"Do not eat too much protein food. The adult does not need one half of the heavy foods that he thinks he needs, such as meat, eggs, beans, peas, cheese, and nuts. He should cut these one-half to his advantage. What he does need are heat and energy foods, starches, sugars, and fats, such as potatoes, rice, bread, butter, cream, sugar, and sweet fruits. While a person can over-eat of these foods, the chances are, by chewing the food he will not do so. We do not eat enough of the fruits, salads, and vegetables. They are not muscle-builders, but they furnish us with organic salts, that make the blood the right consistency and furnish us the material for the blood and nerves."

Mr. Flynn made another attack on vinegar and pepper. "You can get 'gin liver,'" he said, "six times as quickly with vinegar as with gin, and twice as easily with vinegar."

"Green olives," said Mr. Flynn, "are indigestible, but he commended the use of ripe olives."

Mr. Flynn will speak at the Cargill Methodist church this evening on "Colds, Catarrh, Grippe, Pneumonia, and Tuberculosis."

STOMACH SOUR? GOT INDIGESTION ALSO?

"Pape's Diapepsin" Will Make Your Disorder Stomach-Feel Fine in Five Minutes' Time!

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach, or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate, sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache—this is indigestion.

A full case of Pape's Diapepsin costs only fifty cents and will thoroughly cure your out-of-order stomach, and leave sufficient about the house. In case some one else in the family may suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases, then you will understand why dyspeptic trouble of all kinds must go, and why they usually relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. Diapepsin is harmless and tastes like candy, though each dose contains power sufficient to digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many Diapepsin cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be cranky about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever try a little for indigestion or gastritis, or any other stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and forever rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

WHY WHO'S WHO.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

A YELLOW houn' dog and a full-fledged bald-headed nemesis are enough to put a crimp in any man's chances for the presidency. At least, so thinks the Hon. Champ Clark, from his vantage point on the rear seat of the Wilson bandwagon.

The carol of the houn' dog was bad enough, but it was a mere fly speck compared to the six-cylinder nemesis of William Jennings Bryan. Mr. Bryan has one of the most formidable and blood-thirsty nemesises which ever added ruthlessly over the physique of a foe.

When he went to Baltimore he packed his nemesis in his grip, along with his toothbrush and a clean shirt, but he hadn't been in town fifteen minutes before he took it out and shook it in the faces of Messrs. Murphy, Taggart, et al.

When Mr. Clark caught sight of the Bryan nemesis, which was biting large holes in the atmosphere in the effort to purify our politics, he became highly peeved in the region of the temper and made several impassioned contributions to profane history.

He called Mr. Bryan an ingrate and various other forms of animal life, and said he wasn't afraid of any nemesis that had been licked three times hand running. The rest is history. The nemesis triumphed on the forty-sixth ballot and has been gloating in bright purple gloats ever since. But Speaker Clark has rigged up a pretty fair nemesis of his own and is camping on the trail of his Nebraska brother with a choice collection of Missouri curses. He is anxious to pit his nemesis against Bryan's for the gate receipts; and when this happens, hold your horses.

Speaker Clark is somewhat of the Abe Lincoln type, but is built more on the order of the dirigible balloon. When he is not thinking of the Baltimore convention he is a genial man, with a smooth, artesian well flow of Pike county anecdote. He is one of our most vivacious chowers of tobacco, and knows the political game from basement to cupola. From present indications, he will preside over the house for some time to come.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—But Father has a perfect right to change his mind.

The Chronicles of Addington Peace

By B. FLETCHER ROBINSON
 Author with A. Conan Doyle of 'The Hound of the Baskervilles'

This Colonel Bulstrode had served many years in India. Had the mysteries of the east followed him home to a London suburb? The gigantic force with which this spear had been thrown—there was something abnormal there, a something difficult to explain. Yet, after all, it might be a simple matter. Boyne was presumably a strong man, and the deadly fury that induces murder in a law-abiding citizen is akin to madness, giving almost a madman's strength. I was still puzzling over it when the door opened and the little inspector walked in.

"The story of Sergeant Hales?" I asked him. "Is he exaggerating—was the spear thrown with unusual violence?"

"Very unusual. It is the crime of a giant."

He did not finish his sentence, but stood tapping the table and staring out at the gold and green of a summer sunset. At last he turned to me with a slow inclination of the head.

"Hales is waiting," he said, "and we must get to work. The light will not last forever."

The sergeant led us over the lawn to the wilderness and through its paths to the wicket-gate. Showers in the early morning had turned the dust of the road into a grey mud that had dried under the afternoon sun. The surface was scored into a puzzle of diverging lines by the wheels of carts and carriages, cries and motors. Yet Peace hunted it over even more closely than he had hunted the paths in the grounds. He was particularly anxious to know the position in which the body had lain, and finally the sergeant got down in the drying mud to show him.

Apparently the colonel had walked about ten yards from the gate, when the spear struck him. He had fallen almost in the center of the road, which at that point was broad, with stretches of grass bordering it on either side. His revolver had not been fired, though he had been found with it in his hand.

We walked on down the road, Addington Peace leading his men on its surface, and the sergeant and I following behind. For myself, I had not the remotest idea of what he hoped to effect by this promenade, nor do I believe had the sergeant. We circled the outside of the gardens, the road finally curving to the left, and bringing us to the entrance-gate. Here we stopped at a word from the inspector. The little man himself walked on, and finally dropped on his knees close to the hedge. When he joined us again, it was with an expression of satisfaction. He beamed through the gates at the old elm avenue, that rustled sleepily in the gathering dusk.

"What a pretty place it is," he said. "Thank heaven that these old houses still find owners or tenants who dare to defy the jerry builder and all his works. Hello, and who may this be?"

He had turned to the foot of the horn. The motor was close upon us, for a steam-car moves in silence as compared to the busy hum of a petrol-driven machine. It stopped, and the chauffeur jumped down and ran to open the gates. Of the driver we could see nothing save a peaked cap, goggles, and a long white dust coat. As it disappeared up the avenue towards the house I heard a faint bubble of laughter in my ear. I turned in surprise.

"Why, Peace," I said, "what is the joke?"

"There is no joke, Mr. Phillips," he answered. "It was fate that laughed, not I."

There were moments when, to a man of ordinary curiosity, Inspector Addington Peace was extremely irritating.

We walked up the avenue in silence. The motor was standing at the front door, the chauffeur, a bright-faced youngster, loitering beside it. Peace greeted him politely, entering at once into a dissertation upon greasy roads and the dangers of side-slips. Was there nothing that would prevent them? He had heard that there was a patent consisting of using my rightful property in due course."

"Your brother seems to have acted in a very high-handed manner with you, Mr. Bulstrode. I wonder that you did not walk in here one day and recover your property."

The planter rose with a twisted laugh.

"I'm not a housebreaker," he said.

"Also, I must point out that I don't intend to sit here all night. Can I do anything more for you, Inspector?"

"No, Mr. Bulstrode."

"Or for you, Mary?"

"No, uncle. I have my maid, and there is Agatha, the housekeeper."

"So that's all right. Let us thank Heaven the criminal is no longer at large. It didn't take long for our excellent police to make up their minds. Gads! they're clever beggars. They had their hands on him smart enough. It is a pleasure to meet such a man as you, Inspector Addington Peace. A celebrity, by thunder, that's what I call you."

He burst out into a peal of high-pitched laughter, rocking to and fro and clutching the edge of the table with his hand. Then he bowed to us all very low and swaggered out of the room. Peace stepped out after him, and I followed at his heels.

A lamp hung in the roof of the porch, and Mr. Bulstrode stopped beneath it. In its light he looked more fierce and old and yellow than ever.

"It is no good, Mr. Bulstrode," said Addington Peace.

"Exactly; can I give you a lift?" he said quite quietly as he pointed to the car.

"It would certainly be most convenient."

Mr. Bulstrode laughed again, leaning back at me over his shoulder, as if my presence afforded an added zest to his merriment. There seemed an understanding between him and the inspector. Frankly, I puzzled me.

"You do not make confidants of your assistants, Mr. Peace," he said.

The little inspector bowed.

"At the same time," continued the old planter, "I should like to make a statement before we go. There is no necessity to warn me. I know the law."

"It is just as you like, Mr. Bulstrode."

"If I sneered at the police this evening I now make them my apologies. You have managed this business well. I still do not understand how you come to accuse me. Remember, I did not know he was dead until I received a telegram from my niece after lunch. It was rather a shock; perhaps at first I was of a mind not to confess. It would have saved me much inconvenience."

"And endangered an innocent man," said the inspector.

"Well, well, you couldn't have proved it against him, and I might have escaped. The whole affair was an accident. I had no intention even of wounding him."

Wesley on Early Rising.

John Wesley satisfied himself of the expediency of early rising by experiment. "I waked every night about 12 or 1, and lay awake some time. I readily concluded that this arose from my being longer in bed than nature required. To be satisfied, I procured an alarm, which waked me the next morning at 7 (near an hour earlier than I had waked the day before), yet I lay awake again in the night. The second morning I rose at 6; notwithstanding this, I lay awake the second night. The third morning I rose at 5; nevertheless I lay awake. The fourth morning I rose at 4, as I have done ever since, and I lay awake no more."

Should Have Been Prepaid.

Old Father Epicureus, the philosopher, has just sent us a telegram stating that "some men's idea of earning a living is just answering a dinner bell." We should have welcomed the communication had the old gentleman not sent his message collect.—Judge.

DINNER STORIES

Visitor—I came all the way from the city to consult your lawyer, Jones here. He's a good man, isn't he?

Uncle Eben—None; we don't consider him one, two, three with Smith.

Why, Smith's been intrusted with the local agency of the Knott Knitting Needle, the dispensing of Daggett's Druggery, and the demonstration of Fassel's Fireless Cooker.

That not only shows that he's got the confidence of such big fellows as them, but he don't have to depend on his law hardly at all to make a living.

"I will ask you, said the lawyer, who was trying to throw doubts on the testimony of a witness, 'If you have ever been indicted for any offense against the law?'

"I never have, sir."

"Have you ever been arrested on a charge of any kind?"

"Never."

"Well, have you ever been suspected of committing a crime?"

"I'd rather not answer that question."

"Ha! You would rather not. I thought so. I insist upon your answering it. Have you ever been suspected of crime?"

"Yes, sir; often. Every time I come home from a trip abroad the customs inspectors at New York City suspect me of being a smuggler."

"Notary—Sign your name here, Uncle Rastus."

Uncle Rastus—Ah doesn't write me

name, suh. Ah has not time to den triflin' details o' business. Ah allus dictates ma name, sur.

A local justice of the peace was about to perform the marriage ceremony for a colored couple who called at his office for the purpose.

Previous to the performance of the official act the justice proceeded to ask the usual questions of the prospective groom as to his father's Christian name and his mother's maiden name, whereupon the future bride chimed in with this remark:

Are Appreciated by Janesville People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty of proof of its merit right here in Janesville.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills, years ago, and now makes her testimony even stronger.

Mrs. Joseph Gower, 302 Eastern Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "The doctor I had from Doan's Kidney Pills when I used them some years ago has been permanent. I willingly confirm my former endorsement of this remedy. I was afflicted with kidney complaint for several weeks and was feeling miserable in every way when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. and the contents of three boxes rid me of my trouble. I never fail to advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills when I hear anyone complaining of weak kidneys."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Clever Idea of Thieves.

An up-to-date method of robbing hotels is exposed in the German papers. Two young men of excellent appearance are moving about Germany, staying at the best hotels in the leading holiday resorts. After dinner one of them amuses the hotel guests with songs, pianoforte solos and anecdotes, thus keeping the majority of them in the drawing room, while his companion ransacks the private rooms for money and valuables.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, October 16, 1872.—Matrimonial.—One of the pleasant little incidents that come but once in a lifetime, took place at the residence of Mr. Edwin Howell, on Milton avenue, yesterday, it being the occasion of the marriage of his daughter, Miss Ada Howell, to George B. Hedger, Esq., of New York City. The affair was intended to be kept very quiet, the company consisting only of the near relatives of the parties, but the many friends of the bride were not forgetful that it might be their last opportunity to express their regards for her, and hence though not present in person, were present by their numerous and elegant tokens of remembrance. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for their eastern home followed by the best wishes of all who knew them.

The following from the Beloit Crescent is an indication of the feeling in that locality in regard to the republican candidate for sheriff, S. J. Putnam, is the republican candidate for sheriff of Rock county. It would be difficult to find a better man for the office than the one who has been chosen by the people of the stone board house at Janesville, than Mr. Putnam has proved to be.

The new and magnificent clothing store of the M. C. Smith & Son seems to take with the people of Rock and adjoining counties notwithstanding some people said that the stand was too good for Janesville. This firm thinks that the people of southern Wisconsin are entitled to a nice light store so they can see what they are buying as they have in the large cities. The trade of this firm has far exceeded their expectations since they opened, so much so that they have been obliged to duplicate a good many of their bills bought less than thirty days since. The merchant tailoring department of this firm has been doubled since the first of September.

The Georgia Minstrels make their first appearance at the Myers opera house this evening. To those who enjoy food music and a hearty laugh we recommend this entertainment. The program of exercises is excellent, ly chosen and we have no doubt of the ability of the troupe to sustain the stage reputation they have acquired.

The members of the republican ward committee are requested to meet this evening at the office of Dimock and Hammond at 7:30 to consult together in regard to the manner of nominating a candidate for assembly.

Young Bulger in our village grew to manhood, and we thought him sick. "He'll win renown before he's through," we prophesied, "for he's a brick." He held positions here and there, and all employers said the hide such gifts as mine shame to bushel in this town." So Bulger shook the village grind, and to the city took his way, and we old chaps who stayed behind were sure that he'd put up much hay. The years rolled on; there came no news of victories that Bulger won. "Just wait," we said, "we'll bet our shoes he'll make a noise before he's done." We listened for such news in vain, and Bulger to-day came back, a broken man. He kicked him from the trap and shoed him on the railway track. He's working now in Humphreys' store, and draws less wages, so they tell, than he was paid five years before, just when his head began to swell. "The larger field," poor Bulger sighs, "still lures the village chumps elsewhere; they leave a land of meat and pies to live on husks and shredded air."
